AID TO AGED AND BLIND TO BE INCREASED

NEEDY TO GET $60 MONTHLY INSTEAD OF PRESENT $40

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Broad revisions of the Social Security Law, including a 50 percent boost in federal contributions for needy aged and the blind, were approved today by the House Ways and Means Committee and set for prompt House and Senate action.

The committee voted 17 to 8 for an increase in the public assistance program, which through the state-federal matching system would enable the needy to obtain $60 monthly relief against a present $40 top.

With this new provision inserted, the committee ordered introduction of a bill embracing these other stipulations it already had agreed upon:

1. A 50 percent increase in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance tax January 1, from 1 percent to 1.5 percent against employers' pay and employers' payrolls. This tax on that date will jump automatically to 2.5 against each if Congress does not act.

2. Blanketing over 200,000 Maritime workers under the unemployment compensation program of social security.

3. Inclusion of all veterans' families under the survivor insurance provisions for three years, without cost.

4. Repeal of a provision of the 1943 revenue act whereby the federal treasury guarantees the solvency of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Fund.

Maximum Raised Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the Ways and Means group said he hopes Congress will pass the security law revisions before it adjourns for the summer.

Along with the aged and the blind, the committee provisions would increase relief for dependent children.

For the aged and blind the bill would raise from $20, the present maximum, to $30 a month the amount the government will put up for state matching.

For dependent children, under the committee proposal, the first child in a family would be able to get a maximum, under federal-state participation of $27 monthly, compared with a present $18 maximum, and each other child could get up to $18 compared with the present $12 top.

Matching for these purposes now is on a straight 50-50 state-federal basis, but the committee wrote in a variable formula whereby the government will provide up to two dollars for each state dollar in states with low per capita income.

On 50-50 Basis If Congress approves the committee recommendations, the federal cost of the public assistance program will be increased from a present $400,000,000 annually to about $500,000,000. Now receiving public assistance are approximately 2,650,000 aged, 660,000 dependent children and 55,000 blind. Under the variable contribution arrangement, which would become effective October 1, the government would continue to participate on a 50-50 basis in those states where per capita income is above the national average. Limitation Of Debate Gags Senator O'Daniel In OPA Filibustering

BY FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, June 28 (Friday)—A lone wolf filibuster by Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) against the OPA bill blew up early today when the Texas grudgingly consented to a limitation on further debate.

After O'Daniel had held the floor continuously for eight hours and 18 minutes, majority leader Barkley put through the unananimously consent agreement which limits further debate to one hour per senator. O'Daniel started at 3:52 p. m. CDT Thursday and called quits at 12:10 a. m. today.

The move apparently assured a final vote on the OPA extension bill today. The senate recessed at 12:10 a. m. until 11 this morning, and few senators had indicated any desire to do much talking. O'Daniel, under the agreement, can have another hour if he wants it.

O'Daniel, a husky former flour salesman, had been on his feet only a couple of hours when he conceded he could not talk the bill to death without help. To do so, he would have had to hold on until midnight Sunday, when the present law expires.

He kept hoping out loud for assistance, but none was forthcoming, except for brief respites while Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Reed (R-Kas) propounded questions.

There were rumors that Senator Langer (R-ID) was trying to get plane reservations to Washington to help carry on the fight, but he did not appear in time to help O'Daniel, and was reported still in Fargo when the senate quit.

Refreshed by an occasional swig of milk, the Texan appeared remarkably fresh after his talking stint of a full working day.

Barkley was rebuffed twice in his efforts to get unanimous consent for a limitation of debate, and finally at 10 p. m. last night filed a cloture petition signed by 24 senators.

It would have come up for a vote at 1 p. m. Saturday. If adopted by a two-third majority, it would have set the same one hour talk limit for each senator to which O'Daniel finally agreed.

With standees lining the walls of crowded galleries, the big Texan pounded away at the new deal in general and the OPA in particular in what he conceded would be a futile effort—unless he gets help true far not forthcoming—to talk price controls to death.

At 11:52 p. m. C. D. T., last night, O'Daniel had completed, between swigs from two glasses of milk, eight full hours of talking. At midnight he still was going strong, seemingly warming to his work despite a cracking voice from obviously tired vocal cords.

Warly Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), who was keeping the senate in continuous session, watched for any signs of faltering on the part of the former Texas flour salesman who rode to the governorship of Texas and a senatorship on his supporters' chant of "pass the biscuits, pappy."

Senators Hill (D-Ala.), Downey (D-Calif.) and Hart (R-Conn.) asked a few questions and then quickly approved the authorization. Hill predicted similar quick approval by the full military committee at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Some 20,000 of the additional 25,000 officer would go to the air forces, the general said. Even with this increase, he added, the army may be seriously short of officers on July 1 of next year when it must reduce to a strength of 1,670,000.

A war department letter that preceded the general informed the committee that 127,500 officers and 942,500 enlisted men will comprise the authorized strength a year from now. The department hopes to retain enough reserve, national guard, and temporary wartime officers to meet all needs.

FOOD PINCHING MAY CONTINUE MANY MONTHS

PRESIDENT URGES NATION TO KEEP SAVING FLOUR

Washington, June 27 (AP)—President Truman today released a report that world food needs "will still be great for many months to come" and urged Americans to continue the "determined effort" to save bread and flour.

The report showed that an estimated 5,500,500 long tons of food grains will have been shipped to hungry areas by the end of this month and Mr. Truman called this an "impressive record." The goal for the first half was 6,000,000 tons, and this figure now is expected to be reached by the middle of July.

In issuing the report at his news conference, Mr. Truman declined to comment on the "Macedonian cry" of Senator Tobey (R-NH) seeking grain for New England poultrymen. Tobey had made public a reply from Mr. Truman saying the question was whether people or chickens should be kept from starving, and the president said the latter speaks for itself.

Bowles Wants To Quit Mr. Truman announced that Capt. Clark M. Clifford, his naval aide, a former St. Louis attorney, has been appointed special counsel to the president—the post formerly filled by Justice Samuel I. Rosenman. Capt. James H. Foss, who commanded the cruiser Augusta on which Mr. Truman and President Roosevelt traveled, becomes naval aide.

Then the following was developed from questions: 1. Mr. Truman considers it unfortunate that Congress has taken so long to pass the OPA bill. Stabilization Director Chester Bowles has wanted to resign for some time but the president hopes he will stay.

2. The Hobbs Bill making unions subject to the anti-racketeering act is not now before the president—it is going the rounds of various departments for their opinions, and after they are in the decision whether to sign or veto it will be made.

3. The question whether to seize the strike-bound Allis-Chalmers plants still has not been decided. Mr. Truman thinks the strike probably can be settled without seizure.

4. The chief executive still is

ARMY OFFICER QUOTA DOUBLED

Eisenhower Estimates Force Of Million Men Needed

Washington, June 27 (AP)—After a crisp appeal from General Dwight D. Eisenhower, a Senate Military subcommittee today quickly approved 25,000 additional regular army officers, doubling the present authorized strength.

The chief of staff said no one can accurately foretell now the exact requirements for the peace-time army but that it probably must be near one million men as long as our forces occupy Germany and Japan.

The 25,000 additional regular army officers will be needed "for the next 25 or 30 years, or until the UNO (United Nations) becomes a definitely effective force," he testified.

Appearing unannounced before the three-member subcommittee, General Ike discarded a carefully prepared statement in behalf of the officer increase and extemporaneously outlined the army needs.

Senators Hill (D-Ala.), Downey (D-Calif.) and Hart (R-Conn.) asked a few questions and then quickly approved the authorization. Hill predicted similar quick approval by the full military committee at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Gov. Kelly Calls For Unbossed GOP State Convention

BY JACK I. GREEN

Lansing, June 27 (AP)—Governor Kelly, in his first post-primary press conference, today called for an "unbossed" Republican state convention at Detroit July 5.

"While I was the nominee of the party," Kelly said, "I never asked the delegates to give me my choice of the candidates who were to run with me. I always believed and acted upon the theory that it was the business of the delegates and I always found they did a good job. I don't think any governor ever got a finer group of public officials around him than I did by letting the delegates make their own decisions."

Replying to reporters' questions as to whether he would play any part in the selection of nominees at the convention—which he said he would attend—Kelly declared

WALLACE SUMS UP PRODUCTION

Factory Output Called Impressive, But Far From Reconversion

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace said tonight that America's factory production in the first four months of this year had been "impressive," but "reconversion is still far from completed."

"The supply of many finished goods is below normal," he added. "The result is a continuous pressure for increased prices."

The comments were made in a statement declaring that "widespread publicity given to work stoppages, production difficulties and commodity shortages during the first four months of this year has overshadowed the impressive flow of goods that actually emanated from the nation's factories."

Factory shipments during the four-month period were about ten per cent higher in physical volume than during the corresponding months of 1941, he said.

In dollar terms, he said, these shipments totaled about $35,000,000,000, or 40 per cent above the first four months of 1941 and equal to about two-thirds of the peak volume of wartime production a year ago.

Wallace said, however, that about one-fourth of the total dollar value—which would be about $8,375,000,000—represented price increases.

One Body Found In Sturgeon Bay Yachting Tragedy

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., June 27 (AP)—The body of Elton Washburn, 45, one of three companions of Leathem D. Smith who drowned Sunday night in Green Bay, was recovered today in 85 feet of water outside the Sturgeon Bay harbor entrance.

Einar Ahlstrom, an official of the Leathem D. Smith Shipbuilding Co., said the body was found close to the Sloop in which the Smith party was returning to Sturgeon Bay when hit by a gale.

The Sloop was found late yesterday. The search continued for the bodies of Smith, Howard Hunt, 29, and executive in his plant, and Mary Loomis, 19, Winnetka, Ill.

Patricia Smith, 19, the shipbuilder's daughter, the only survivor, was recovering in a hospital.

HOUSE DERIDES SOVIET SECRECY

Relief Through UNRRA Barred To Nations Censoring Press

Washington, June 27 (AP)—The house voted today to bar American relief through UNRRA to any nation censoring press accounts of its distribution—meaning Russia.

"The time has come to quit appeasing," declared Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.) who sponsored the provision.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the appropriations committee asserted on the other hand that "the blood of a million boys" might be shed "if we proceed to gratuitously insult a friendly nation."

Despite administration opposition, the house adopted the amendment by a 154 to 53 standing (non-record) vote. It is subject to a record vote tomorrow when the house acts finally on the bill to which it was attached. The senate has yet to consider the bill.

The measure carries $465,000,000 for UNRRA, along with $261,571,909 for various other purposes. There was no indication how much of this amount might be slated for UNRRA relief in Russia. Latest reports show UNRRA budget commitments of $189,000,000 to the Ukraine and $61,000,000 to Byelorussia, while actual aid given to those countries through April 30 was $58,000,000 and $24,000,000, respectively. Dirksen said 72 cents of every UNRRA dollar is furnished by the United States.

WIND CROSSES BORDER FROM WINDSOR, ONT.

PROPERTY DAMAGED IN TWO CITIES; NINE INJURED

Detroit, June 27 (AP)—A short-lived tornado—the second in 11 days—swirled across the border today injuring at least nine persons and damaging property in Detroit and Windsor, Ont.

There were no immediate reports of any fatalities.

The twister apparently formed in Windsor, swung across the Detroit River and cut sharply through an industrial area of the American city.

Lasts Two Minutes It spent its strength in about two minutes.

Observers said it reversed the direction of a similar tornado that claimed 15 lives and injured hundreds on June 17.

Witnesses on the Canadian side said a strong wind, accompanying an electrical storm, damaged a section of that city and injured one man.

Those on the American side first saw the black tornado cone in mid-stream. Seconds later it struck Detroit.

Leo F. Maseth of the U. S. customs office said he saw a waterspout race across the river from the Canadian side in the vicinity of the International Ambassador bridge.

Metacologist W. W. Oak of the Detroit weather bureau said he saw the cone from a window of his office at 3:37 p. m.

Lands In Luncheon Homes and buildings on the Detroit side were extensively damaged.

The roof of a large bus terminal was blown off.

In Windsor a lumber company was damaged and a storage firm hit.

A man identified as W. Brooker, 53, was slightly injured by flying lumber in Windsor.

"I heard a noise and looked up," he reported. "I was standing in back of a shed. I didn't know what hit me. When I came to I was in a lunch room 50 feet away."

First reports said the area devastated by the earlier storm was untouched by today's twister.

Receiving hospital in Detroit listed the following victims who were taken there:

Nazi Boss Killer Hangs Himself In Jail At Nuernberg

Dachau, June 27 (AP)—Stripped of his clothing but using the single blanket given him as a robe, the former Nazi commander of the Flossenburg concentration camp hanged himself in a Nuernberg jail less than 24 hours after his capture. U. S. army authorities said today.

He was Lt. Col. Max Koegele, wanted in connection with the slaying of 40,000 inmates at the concentration camp, for which 52 of his subordinates are on trial before a military tribunal here.

Koegele was arrested yesterday by U. S. agents who discovered him disguised as a bearded farmer in a Bavarian village, and brought to the Nuernberg jail last night.

President Of Chile Is Taken By Death

Santiago, Chile, June 27 (AP)—President Juan Antonio Rios, 58, an advocate of solidarity among the nations of the Western hemisphere, died at his residence today after a prolonged illness which caused him to quit his official duties more than six months ago.

Funeral services and burial will take place on Saturday.

The government decreed a three-day period of national mourning. Under the constitution Vice President Alfredo Duhalde must announce presidential elections within 10 days, fixing the date within 60 days of his proclamation.

Russia To Receive 100 Million Pounds Of Pork From U. S.

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Rep. August H. Andersen (R-Minn.) told the House today during debate on the UNRRA bill that he had learned from the agricultural department that 100,000,000 pounds of pork has been set aside for shipment to Russia if the measure is enacted.

Officials at the agriculture department, asked for comment, said the department has no information at present on how much meat it has set aside for UNRRA. They explained that the data will be available Monday in connection with the monthly inventory.

Andersen told a reporter that the pork represents "choice cuts of the hog" and has been prepared in cans according to a recipe provided by the Russian government.

Policemen Knifed, Two Negroes Slain In Detroit Battle

Detroit, June 27 (AP)—Two Negroes were slain and two policemen were wounded, one seriously, in a stabbing-shooting in Detroit's Paradise Valley section today.

Arthur Gordon was shot and killed by patrolman Ronald Conklin as he emerged from an upstairs flat brandishing a knife. Conklin suffered a groin wound, and his partner, patrolman Timothy Neenan, who was attacked first, was slashed in the abdomen. Neenan is in serious condition.

Inside the flat, police found the body of Gordon's wife, Nellie. She had been stabbed to death.

Conklin said neighbors had summoned police following a disturbance in the flat.

"The man charged at us with a knife," Conklin said. "He stabbed Neenan in the abdomen and cut me in the groin. Then I shot him."

Landlord Refuses To Evict Families; Will Stay In Jail

Louisville, Ky., June 27 (AP)—Morris Z. Davis found himself a hero to three families here today, even though he was in jail and threatened to remain there "until hell freezes over."

Davis, owner of a tenement building which the city had condemned as a fire hazard, went to jail yesterday for refusing to evict the three tenants as directed by the Jefferson Circuit Judge Lawrence Speckman. Other families moved out previously after finding new homes.

The three remaining tenants all spoke in glowing terms of the treatment they have received from their landlord.

Judge Speckman ordered Davis to jail for 30 hours or until he purges himself of contempt. The 30 hours have expired but Davis says he'll stay in there and pitch.

Son Disinherited By Will Of Cowboy Actor, William Hart

Los Angeles, June 27 (AP)—William S. Hart, Jr., 24, only child of the late cowboy actor, was specifically disinherited in Hart's will filed for probate today.

Young Hart last week lost a court fight over guardianship of his father's estate, estimated at nearly $1,000,000. He was appointed co-guardian of his father's person, after charging his father was not receiving proper care, but a friend of the actor, who died last Sunday, was named guardian of the estate.

"I have made no provision in this will for my son," the will said, "for the reason that I have amply provided for him during my lifetime." The will was dated Sept. 9, 1944.

Funeral services for Hart were held yesterday.

Draft Boards Call No Men For July

Lansing, June 27 (AP)—Induction of men for the armed services will be suspended during July, the state selective service headquarters informed local draft boards in Michigan today.

The headquarters said immediate instructions from national headquarters called only for the cancellation of July draft calls. Newspaper reports of congressional action on a new draft law have indicated that induction might be stopped during both July and August.

Armed Jews Given 15 Years In Prison By Palestine Court

Jerusalem, June 27 (AP)—Thirty members of the militant Jewish underground organization Irgun Vzal Leumi were sentenced by a military court today to 15 years imprisonment for carrying firearms and explosives, and another, Benjamin Kaplan, was given a life sentence for shooting at a British soldier.

Still defiant, the defendants, one a girl, broke into song and cries of "long live Irgun Vzal" and "our struggle continues."

They had refused to take any part in the proceedings, contending they were "prisoners of war" and not subject to the jurisdiction of the court.

The sentences are subject to confirmation by Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander-in-Chief in Palestine. They were convicted yesterday after a three-day trial.

Meanwhile, nearly 1,300 illegal Jewish immigrants arrived at Haifa. A British destroyer hover-having difficulty finding men to serve in government posts, and has not been able to complete the council to administer the employment act. Low government salaries in private industry are the chief difficulty.

Two questions dealing with international affairs were brushed aside without comment—the sending of the cruiser Fargo to Trieste, and Russia's use of the veto yesterday in United Nations discussions on Spain.

Export Quota Stands

The food report was prepared by John W. Snyder as reconversion director before he became secretary of the treasury.

It made clear that the remaining 499,500 tons of grain to be shipped in July to complete the quota for the first half of the year will be in addition to the 250,000 bushels scheduled for export during the crop year beginning July 1.

The secretary of agriculture has wisely laid plans to continue the acquisition of wheat from the new 1946 crop," the report said.

A report that the agriculture department plans to reduce this program by 100,000,000 bushels was denied by a department spokesman, who said Secretary Anderson believes the full goal should stand.

BY ED CREAUGH

London, June 27 (AP)—Britain today rationed bread and flour effective July 1st, cutting food to a point as low as at any time during the war, and bringing instant protest from housewives.

The long-dreaded step, evaded throughout six years of hostilities, was announced to a glum house of commons by Food Minister John Strachey, who said there would be a basic bread ration of nine ounces daily for adults, with less for children and more for manual workers. The bread ration will be about three ounces a week less than present average consumption.

First public reaction was one of disappointment tempered by the fact that most people had expected the decision.

But the British Housewives' league, claiming thousands of members, immediately declared, "we are not going to take this lying down."

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house that "this is one of the gravest announcements ever heard made in the house in the time of peace."

Gambling Avoided

In giving details of the decision, Strachey said "it would not be fair to say that the United States is making no efforts or sacrifices in this matter."

"The United States," he added, "is suffering very considerably in certain areas from difficulties of distribution."

Strachey explained that bread rationing would cut consumption by five to 10 percent and declared it was absolutely necessary in order to avoid gambling with "the basic food supply of the British people."

Coupons already in everybody's ration book will entitle the holder to buy a one-pound 12-ounce loaf of bread with four units, a pound of flour with three units or a pound of "flour confectionary"—cakes of various kinds—with two units.

While most adults can buy only nine ounces of bread daily, men who do heavy work will be allowed 15 ounces, women manual workers and expectant mothers 11 ounces, and children varying amounts from two to eight ounces.

A special allowance—12 ounces—is made for boys and girls between the ages of 11 and 18.

Bread units can be exchanged at food offices for "ordinary" points—needed to buy canned goods, cereals and such—so that families using less bread than the ration can benefit. The estimated 12,000,000 manual workers will get their extra coupons through their employers.

Typist, 18, Describes Night Of Torture With Army Aviator

Boston, June 27 (AP)—Helen Starrou, 18-year-old former army airfield typist, showed burn-scared breasts to a 12-man superior court jury today and later slumped unconscious as she was cross-examined on her testimony of 17 hours of suffering with a 24-year-old medalled army flier.

The girl pushed her dress from her shoulders and stood before jurymen at the request of prosecuting attorney Edward M. Sullivan. On her breasts were ragged "T" and "H" scars which the former Westover field clerk said were inflicted into her with burning cigarettes when she was "in mortal terror" during 17 hours in a Boston hotel room with Lt. Thomas Farrell of Somerville.

Contained under early cross-examination, Miss Stavrou collapsed late today and after being carried to a window by policemen was revived by a court doctor.

Judge Edward J. Voke adjourned the trial when the girl regained consciousness.

Charges against Farrell include the branding and razor-slashing of the girl, sex offenses and assault and battery with a weapon with intent to maim and disfigure.

New York Express Embargo Invoked Because Of Strike

New York, June 27 (AP)—An immediate embargo on all express shipments to and from New York City was ordered today by the American Express agency as a result of a walkout by its employees in the metropolitan area.

The workers began leaving their jobs shortly after last midnight in what they said was a move to force action on grievances. Three thousand express workers voted at a meeting today to remain away from work until their grievances are settled.

Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of packages began piling up at terminals, the largest of which handled 90,000 shipments daily.

Wholesale Prices Still On Upswing

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Wholesale prices increased 5/10 of one per cent during the week ended June 22 to 112.4 per cent of the 1935 commodity index, the bureau of labor statistics reported today.

The new level is 1.5 higher than a month ago and 6.5 per cent above the level at the end of the war.

The index for farm products rose 1/10 of one per cent. It is two per cent above a month ago and 7.7 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The sharp advances in dairy products contributed to an increase of 1.7 per cent in foods. On the average, food prices are 2.4 higher than a month ago and 6 per cent higher than a year earlier.

path of destruction in Windsor.

William J. Maloney, who operates a gasoline station in the Detroit section hit by today's tornado, said:

"I saw it coming. It was the first one I ever saw and I don't want to see another * * * Have you ever heard a building crumble? Well, that's the way it sounded to me. It picked cars up as high as 10 feet in the air and set them down three deep. * * *

"I saw an airliner headed up the Detroit river. The pilot apparently saw the tornado coming, because he banked sharply and avoided it. A couple of customers and I headed inside the station as fast as we could make it."

Traffic in the stricken area was hopelessly snarled as fallen power lines, the roofs of half a dozen buildings and debris littered the streets.

Owen Keith, superintendent of the Greyhound garage, said that he heard a roar, "and the first thing I knew, the whole damn roof was blown off." He reported a number of buses were damaged.

Witnesses said the twister headed east down one of Detroit's main thoroughfares toward the downtown section, but quickly dissipated itself.

Detroit (AP)—The Detroit lighting commission reported 25 per cent of the city's lighting facilities were knocked out by the wind which accompanied today's tornado. Lights, however, were restored within an hour, commission officials said.

Detroit (AP)—"I was on detail at the waterfront," Police Sgt. Theodore Gaylor said. "I saw the tornado come across the river from the Canadian side. It was siphoning up water as though into a large funnel."

"I saw the roofs of two factories swirl into the air."

Detroit (AP)—Torrential rains followed the brief tornado today, tallying exactly with the pattern set by last week's more devastating twister.

Detroit streets all over the city were flooded to hub cap depth and transportation was disrupted by drowned-out buses and private cars. Buses and street-cars were reported 20 minutes behind schedule two hours after the storm.

Detroit (AP)—The Automobile Club of Michigan reported it received 780 trouble calls in Detroit during the storm that accompanied the tornado today. Four trucks were dispatched to the stricken area to extricate the remains of members' cars.

Two hours after the storm, the club said traffic all over the city was still snarled.

Detroit (AP)—Officials of the Greyhound bus garage, severely damaged in today's tornado, said 200 persons were at work in the building. Only six were injured.

Detroit (AP)—Robert Warwick, foreman at the Greyhound bus garage, said that the tornado said, "About four or five miles due west out Fort street I saw a distinct funnel from a cloud base. It lasted about three minutes at the most—from 3:37 p. m. to 3:40 p. m."

SWEEPED THE ROOF OF THE BUILDING INTO THE STREET

"Debris was falling from the funnel. The base of the funnel was about 75 feet from the ground. I knew it was a tornado because the stuff that was falling looked like roofs or house sidings."

"I never saw the funnel strike the ground. But it must have hit the ground somewhere because of the debris it was carrying. An American Airlines pilot called in and said the funnel was about five miles west of Detroit."

"But because of the haze and smoke, I could not estimate the distance. It may have been much closer. The funnel disappeared into a flat cloud base after having stayed between 150 and 200 feet below the base."

"To have two tornadoes in this area in a little over a week is really something. This is not a tornado belt. The chances of a tornado in a tornado belt is one per year for each 17,000 square miles. We are really batting way over our heads around here."

Detroit (AP)—Biggest attraction for the thousands of curious—most of whom waited until a driving rain abated before surveying the damage—was a power line worker who scaled a pole to cut off a burning wire. The line was charged with 4,400 volts and police held the crowds back until it was mended.

Detroit, June 27 (AP)—The tornado that struck Detroit with a half fury today gave the Universal Trailer Co. building a quick change of roofs.

The twister ripped off the building's roof in one piece, then returned a split second later to deposit the top of the George Meisel Co. structure which had also been torn from its walls.

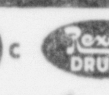

WEATHERMAN WATCHED

Detroit, June 27 (AP)—Weatherman W. W. Oak had a rare experience today—the witnessing of a tornado from his office window in the downtown Federal building.

Meteorologist Oak said he was chatting with a caller when the visitor suddenly exclaimed: "Look, what's that in the air?"

WELLS CHILD IS KILLED THURS.

Jerry Casey Is Run Over By Gladstone Man's Automobile

Jerry Casey, 3½ year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Casey, 3 University avenue, Wells, was instantly killed about five o'clock Thursday afternoon on Highland avenue in Wells, about a block from his home, when he was accidentally struck by a car driven by Myron R. Hillman, 22, of 1403 Michigan avenue, Gladstone.

Hillman had backed his car from the drive-way at the Clarence Wright home, turned around and was about to drive north on the highway when the right side of his machine struck the Casey child and threw him beneath it, the right rear wheel passing over the boy's head.

Hillman told sheriff's department officers, who investigated the accident, that he did not see the boy until after the automobile hit him. The child was evidently standing on the right hand side of the car which was well off the road when the accident occurred. The Gladstone driver was not held.

Jerry William Casey was born Oct. 21, 1942, at Escanaba. Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Casey; one sister, Mrs. Richard Schmeltzer, Escanaba; two brothers, James and Richard, at home; and a grandmother, Mrs. Malvina Casey of Wells.

The body will lie in state at the Alto funeral home tonight, and funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Joseph's church, with the Rev. Fr. Alphonse Wilberding officiating. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest.

What's Wrong With Having Big Family?

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Americans have smiled indulgently and spilled sympathetic tears these last few years over the trials and tribulations of large and unconventional families dramatized in books and plays.

But such a family next door or right across the street, or in a house we're renting, is a different matter.

Four is about as large a family as we can accept today without raised eyebrows—outside a theater or the pages of a book. And as for boarders, chickens, broken-down jalopies in the yard, etc., well a household that's cluttered up with people, possessions, and pets is a nuisance to a neighborhood. But it's not yet so in the eyes of the law.

In Chicago the new owner of a nine-room house tried to evict the tenant, a widow, because she had nine children, 10 dogs, several boarders, 24 chickens, two rabbits, and three broken-down cars in constant repair on the front lawn. These things, said the owner, made the family a neighborhood nuisance.

The widow, who had lived in the neighborhood 24 years, couldn't deny the nine children. The dogs she explained by the simple statement that "the lady dog is always having puppies."

The rabbits were Easter gifts to the kids. The chickens were kept because of the meat shortage.

And the "boarders," turned out to be the son of a dead sister and an elderly couple who had been taken in because they had no other place to live.

"Is that wrong?" asked the widow.

The judge heard her out and decided against eviction and in favor of family life—children, dogs, chickens, long-term guests and all.

Cheers For the Judge

His decision is heartening. Nothing else has done as much to cut down the size of modern families as has our snooty attitude toward large families who make a house bulge with living.

Large families are all right in books. But next door or in the next apartment we want a childless couple, or at least a couple realizing that two children is the absolute limit.

So hooray for the judge who

Vet Says Scoutcraft Saved Lives In Jap Prison Camps

SCOUT TROOP started by letter from Japanese prison camp gets acquainted with its founder, Capt. Lee Vest (seated).

Minneapolis (AP)—The Boy Scout troop which Capt. Lee Vest founded in Minneapolis by mail during his three and one-half years in a Japanese prison camp is flourishing. In one of the 10 letters his captors permitted him to write he said:

"Dear Mother and Dad: 'Draw on my savings and start a Boy Scout troop at the church.' The letter reached his parents in February, 1945. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vest took it to the Rev. Forest L. Riehsen of the Portland Avenue Christian Church. Troop 89 was organized. The captain reached home the next October, had dinner with his family and an hour later was in the troop room getting acquainted with his scouts.

There followed months of treatment in an Army hospital. But when his health was restored he became scoutmaster of the troop he founded.

Scout training proved important in the Japanese prison camp, Capt. Vest says. Some of the men who did "might have lived if they'd had some training in outdoor life and had known how to take care of themselves."

"There were 30 or 40 former Boy Scouts in camp," Vest said. "Americans, British, Dutch, Australians and Canadians. We organized and met frequently to talk about the good times we had had. We played the old Scout games and sang the Scout songs."

"We talked about how so many people at home didn't hold up their end in civic and government affairs. We decided Scouting was a means of overcoming such an attitude and told each other we'd do something about it when we got home."

"That's what I'm trying to do."

City Pier Lights Will Be Turned On Here Every Night

Lights at the municipal pier on the north shore, which have been turned on in the past only on special occasions, will be lighted nightly for the remainder of the summer season, Hugo Lillquist, superintendent of the city electrical department, reported yesterday.

The pier lights will be turned on daily at the same time as street lights throughout the city and will remain on until daybreak.

Automatic switch controls for the pier lights are being ordered but meanwhile they will be controlled manually.

thinks there is nothing disgraceful about a large and generous-hearted family old-fashioned enough to let a "lady dog have puppies," ingenious enough to repair its own old cars, and kind-hearted enough to see nothing wrong about taking in to share the home folks who have no other place to go.

Such families may not have chic. But they are the kind of families many famous Americans have come from.

Seney

Gelker-Gonser

Seney, Mich.—Miss Mary Gelker became the bride of Clarence E. Gonser of Seney at an impressive double-ring ceremony which took place in the First Methodist church at St. Ignace on June 22. The marriage was performed by Major Ivan Gonser, oldest brother of the bridegroom, before an altar banked with roses, spirea and peonies.

Preceding the service, Miss Chastelle sang "Because," accompanied by the organist, Louis Walker, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by Milo Gonser, Sr., chose for her wedding gown a powder blue two-piece afternoon dress with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

The bridesmaid was Miss Marvel Gonser, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a two-piece suit of black and white check, with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of carnations and sweet peas.

Reo Gonser, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Milo Gonser, Sr., attended her son's wedding wearing a black two-piece dress with white accessories and a shoulder spray of carnations and sweet peas.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlors for members of the immediate families. Roses and white decorations decorated the table where the bride cut the four-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Among those attending the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Reo Gonser and family; Mr. and Mrs. Milo Gonser, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Milo Gonser, Jr., of Seney; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gonser and family of Saline; Major and Mrs. Ivan Gonser and family; Miss Laura Gonser of Chicago; Miss Marvel Gonser, Grand Rapids; Mrs. M. Curtis of Topinka; Mr. and Mrs. Van Duren, Indian River.

The wedding reception was also the occasion of a reunion for the Gonser family, it being the first time in 13 years that the entire family had been together.

Following the reception, the young couple left for a motor trip through Canada. They will make their home in Seney, where the bridegroom and his brother, Milo Gonser, operate a saw-mill.

Games were played, with prizes for cribbage awarded to Mrs. McDonald, high score, and Miss Mary Jane Brunette, low score. Following the games, the hostesses served a delicious lunch. Mrs. McDonald, who is the former Gladys Johnson, was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Farm Market Will Open On Saturday

The city's farm produce market on First avenue north will open Saturday, June 29. City Clerk Carl E. Anderson reported yesterday, but aside from a little poultry, there will probably be no more meat than there is to be found in most retail stores now.

Farmers will offer a variety of farm produce, including eggs, flowers, seasonal vegetables for sale.

Why A State Bonus?

THERE are a number of angles to the proposal for a state veterans' bonus that should be carefully weighed before the scheme is permitted to saddle the state with a debt of approximately a quarter of a billion dollars.

Politicians, fearful of the veterans' voting power, are jumping onto the bonus bandwagon and none has yet had the courage to point out the substantial arguments that exist against the bonus plan.

It is true that Michigan voted a soldiers' bonus after World War I at a total cost of $55,000,000, of which only 56 per cent actually was paid to the war veterans. The rest went for interest and administrative costs.

However, there was no discharge pay for servicemen after World War I, no accrued furlough pay, no unemployment compensation, no GI Bill of Rights with free schooling for veterans, and servicemen were not paid $50 per month during their period of service.

The question of a state bonus itself is open to question because the responsibility, if one exists properly, should be a federal responsibility and not a responsibility of the individual states. Soldiers fought in a national army and not a state army.

The suggested method of financing a state bonus also should be subjected to the most careful analysis. The plan proposed thus far is to assess a three cents per package tax on cigarettes and a $1.25 per barrel tax on beer. This proposal fails to recognize the principle that if the State of Michigan does owe an obligation for a bonus to its servicemen, it is a responsibility of all of the people of the state, and not merely those who smoke cigarettes or drink beer. These commodities are already heavily taxed and it is an imposition to expect the smokers and beer drinkers alone to pay the full cost of such a bonus.

This brings up another point deserving of consideration. The history of taxation, whether local, state or national, shows conclusively that once a tax is assessed for any purpose, it is virtually impossible to remove that tax when the particular purpose has been met.

Past experience would seem to indicate that additional taxes levied on cigarettes and beer now to pay a state soldiers' bonus would probably remain in effect even after bonds for the bonus have been redeemed.

Not All Isolationist

ANYONE who gained the impression from the Nebraska primary results that America was returning to isolationism may gain new hope from the outcome of the North Dakota election.

Senator Young led former Senator Gerald P. Nye by almost four to one in the North Dakota contest for the Republican nomination. Senator Nye long was an ardent advocate of isolationism, and he did not reverse his stand in his campaign for return to the senate.

Of course, the personal popularity of the candidate and other issues outside of isolationism may have accounted for Senator Young's fine showing at the polls. The same might have been the case in Nebraska, where Senator Butler expressed strong opposition to various policies involving international cooperation.

It is sometimes difficult to determine what influences an elector to vote for a particular candidate. It may be a familiar name, a fond baby kissed, a handshake, an attractive picture and a variety of other reasons. Politics is that way.

No Time for Interlochen

THIS year it is again permissible for students to broadcast concerts from the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich. The Lea (anti-Petrillo) Act makes it unlawful for James Caesar Petrillo, the musicians' union president, to interfere with these non-commercial education broadcasts as he did in 1942 when, by demanding that the broadcaster pay stand-in union musicians for these concerts on threat of a strike, he forced these programs off the air.

But it appears that the 12-year-old broadcast series will not be resumed. No network has yet "found time" for the programs. This undoubtedly disappoints Dr. Joseph Maddy, the camp director, but it can scarcely surprise him.

For it is evident that the networks still fear the shrewd, resourceful, unpredictable Mr. Petrillo. They have a law of clear intent to protect them in this matter. But Mr. Petrillo has already broken that law in order to test its constitutionality. Until there is a final decision, which will be a matter of months and perhaps years, they do not dare move.

And even if the decision should go against Mr. Petrillo, it is a question whether the networks would dare resume the broadcasts. So far, the union chief has always managed to outsmart those who attempt to challenge his power to tax and dictate to the employers of musicians. It is not at all certain that the networks believe that this power has been checked.

For Clean Government

HOW Kim Sigler made such a surprising good showing in his almost single-handed campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Michigan is not so difficult to understand.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly and other officers came out openly in support of Lieut. Gov. Vernon J. Brown in the race for governor. It goes without saying that most state officeholders went down the line for Brown, a capable public servant with an exceptionally good record.

But the grand jury hearings had disclosed there was something rotten down in Lansing. While none of the other candidates was tainted by the political corruption, the people of Michigan looked upon Kim Sigler as the white-plumed knight who made the gallant fight that resulted in a sizable number of convictions and confessions of guilt.

So Michigan Republicans, along with many independent voters, went to the polls to vote for Kim Sigler and the ideal of good government he represented. These voters were not voting for political jobs for themselves or their nephews and cousins. Their only desire is for clean, honest government. If Kim Sigler is elected, it is to be hoped that he will not let these good people down.

Waste in Stakes

EACH year, thousands of young trees are cut in Upper Michigan, Northern Wisconsin and other areas for use as car stakes in the hauling of logs and other forest products on the railroads. Conservationists long have observed this practice with concern for if allowed to grow a few decades more these young hardwood trees would become a much more valuable resource.

At long last, there is some hope that the wasteful cutting of stakes will be reduced appreciably. Representatives of railroads, lumbering companies and the Forest Service conferred yesterday at Stambaugh to discuss a proposal for the universal use of patent car stakes.

There is another strong argument for the use of the patent stakes. When the crude stakes are used on heavily loaded flat cars there is always the hazard of logs breaking loose, such as occurred on the C&N.W. railroad bridge at Wells recently. Consequently, there are good reasons for adoption of the patent car stakes—conservation and safety.

Comrade Browder is returning from Moscow as exclusive representative of all Soviet publishing houses in the United States. As such he expects to "facilitate cultural exchanges."

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The stalemate between the western powers and Soviet Russia is growing into a sort of Chinese wall. New stones are being added at the United Nations meeting in New York and at the conference of foreign ministers in Paris, so that soon we shall scarcely be able to look across at one another.

In view of the extreme gravity of this situation, as it develops from day to day, it is important to keep the record straight. Shortly before the current meeting of the foreign ministers, the statement was made in this column that it was regrettable that Secretary of State James F. Byrnes had not at an earlier date pressed his proposal for a 25-year four-power treaty to keep the peace in Europe.

—KEEPING RECORD STRAIGHT—
Shortly before he left for the conference now going on in Paris, Secretary Byrnes wrote to me taking courteous issue with that statement and stressing the need to keep the chronology straight. Perhaps the best way to present the record is to quote the relevant paragraphs of the secretary's letter:

"I became secretary in July and immediately left for the Potsdam conference. At Potsdam, the Council of Foreign Ministers was established. Its first meeting was held in London in September. It was during this meeting in the early part of September that I made the treaty proposal to Mr. Molotov.

"It was necessary to first discuss it informally and ascertain how it would be received by the Soviet government. Later, on December 24, I discussed it with Generalissimo Stalin and he agreed to it in principle and said he would support it.

"I announced this history to all the correspondents in Paris on the day I announced that I had made the offer. I emphasized that, instead of first being offered at that time, it had been agreed to by Generalissimo Stalin on Christmas eve, 1945.

"When Mr. Molotov for the first time questioned Generalissimo Stalin's agreement, I stated at a press conference the history, a copy of which I will enclose for you because I do hope you will help me in keeping straight this record of its being proposed last September. The Paris meeting was simply the forum in which the announcement was made of what had been proposed in September, 1945."

The record enclosed by Secretary Byrnes shows that Stalin said he "would wholeheartedly support" such a treaty if Byrnes proposed it. Apparently Byrnes was still under that belief when he made public the proposal in Paris in April of this year.

If Stalin really meant what he said on December 24—and Byrnes believed that he did—then the first duty is to see if any logical reason exists for a change of mind. In the interval between December 24 and Molotov's abrupt rejection of the 25-year treaty, what was the chief single event affecting British-Soviet-U. S. relations? Obviously it was Winston Churchill's speech at Fulton, Missouri, on March 5, which seemed to have been made with the sanction, if not indeed the approval, of President Truman.

—AROUSING KREMLIN'S IRE—
Running through that speech was the information that the Soviet system, alien, secretive, harsh, implacable, could scarcely exist in the same world with the western democracies. At any rate, as read in the Kremlin, it was subject to that interpretation.

The Churchill speech caused the most violent outburst we have heard from Moscow since the end of the war. The masters of the Kremlin have not forgotten, of course, that Churchill became, after 1918, the chief funder of a holy crusade against Bolshevik Russia. I believe a careful examination of relations before the speech and after would show a striking change that could be directly attributed to the Churchill declaration.

In the light of all this, information which has come to me from a reliable source seems highly significant. In conversation with an important British official, Stalin recently remarked that no one in the Atlee government in London had as yet repudiated Churchill's remarks at Fulton. He said this with considerable feeling, plainly indicating it was a source of rancor. Moreover, he went on to point out that Churchill was still a paid official of the government, which he is under Britain's parliamentary system, as leader of the opposition.

Perhaps the case is hopeless, as we are told so often by those who denounce "appeasers." The headlines—on atomic energy, on Trieste and so on—seem to confirm this. But we should not reconcile ourselves to this final disaster until the heads of state have met once again to try to clear the air of doubt and suspicion. It is time for Stalin, Truman and Atlee to sit down around the conference table to see whether any area of agreements exists.

the dictionaries do mention "fuze" as a variant spelling, they all use "fuse" in their articles about the fuses of shells.

Fuse is from the Italian fuso, from the Latin fusus, "a spindle." The French word is fusée. Hence, the spelling with "s" is historically correct.

I am not a dope. And I refuse to be trampled underfoot by the mailed fist of the Ordnance Departments. (Those metaphors are a little mixed, but my meaning is perfectly clear.) We merely belong to two different schools of thought. To the War and Navy Departments I say, "You read your books, and I'll read mine."

Moreover, I'm an expert on fuses in my own right. I've been known to replace a blown-out light fuse in two minutes flat—yes, and single-handed, except for someone to hold the flashlight. And when I buy two or three spares, my druggist gives them to me out of a box plainly labeled "Fuses."

Hah! "Fuze," indeed!

PLACE NAMES—To the residents of a community the names of local places and how those names came into being are always interesting. Sometimes these place names involve the great in history—Rudyard and Kipling for instance. Few people know, however, that Kipling wrote a little poem "My Two Sons in Michigan" after he was informed that two Upper Peninsula communities had been named in his honor.

Several times this column has presented information on local place names.

Walter Hornstein of Garden, whose varied interests include sailing, writing, and delving into the history of Garden and vicinity, has politely informed us that we are wrong and proves it. Walter writes as follows:

ROBERTS REMEMBERS—"I noted with interest your item of several weeks ago in the column relative to place names of Delta county, and particularly the reference to Kate's Bay having been named 'for the Kates family.'"

"I submit herewith, with no wish to either become contentious or to start a controversy, the substance of my last interview with the late Jacob Roberts in March, 1942. This was three years before he died, and he was then 82 years old. He had lived in the Kate's Bay community since 1859, having arrived there with his father, Ferdinand Roberts, a brother, two sisters with their mother, at the age of six months. The family came from Bay Settlement, now a part of Green Bay, Wis., to fish in Bay de Noc. They arrived in a 50-foot schooner operated by a man named Beuten, also from Bay Settlement, who regularly bought fish from the settlers.

Jake's father came to engage in fishing with John Sexton and Asa Bailey, two of the oldest settlers of Kate's Bay, who had already built themselves homes there.

HIS STORY—"Altogether they were ten cabins built on the bay, already known as Kate's Bay, when I was just a child," Jake told me. "Fishing then was quite a business for all hands, what with seines and pond nets, for in ten good days fishing they could easily catch 250 barrels of fish which they would just in salt."

The men worked in pairs and trawled and purchased their barrels from a cooper named Marshall, who made them by hand all of white pine on the hill on the north side of the bay where later Tom Streator built his home.

OLD KATE—"In one of the ten cabins along the rim of the bay lived a half-breed Indian woman, alone, widowed and childless, 43 years old. She had buried her husband in the little clump of cedars near the foot of the hill to the east, and resumed the fishing herself after her husband's death. She had a 35-foot sailboat and worked just like a man at the fish-

Miss Elsie Karas of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karas, was graduated from Northern State Teachers' college at Marquette, at commencement exercises held there on Monday.

Miss Maxine French, who recently received her degree at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., sailed yesterday for New York City aboard the "Queen Mary" for Europe, to remain abroad until September 5.

Clarence Zerbel, principal of Escanaba junior high school, is leaving today for Ann Arbor, where he will enter the University of Michigan for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sanford are the parents of a daughter, born Wednesday at St. Francis hospital.

20 Years Ago—1926

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a house belonging to George Dugless at Bark River about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. M. Edward Powers, 704 South 15th street, was seriously injured about six o'clock last evening, when she was struck at the intersection of Ludington and First avenue south, by a touring car driven by Anthony Clairmont, 610 North 19th street.

Among the local persons who have returned from Chicago, where they attended the Eucharistic Congress are: Rev. Fr. R. G. Jacques, Rev. Fr. Bertrand Labinski, Rev. Fr. Daniel Linfert, Rev. Fr. A. Wencher, Rev. Fr. Fabian Horner, Mr. and Mrs. William Finnegan, Mrs. C. Molloy and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. C. O'Connell, V. K. Blomstrom and sons Victor Jr., Ellis, John and Joseph; Clarence Todd, Mrs. Phil Tonne, Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll, Zeph Beauchamp, Mrs. P. C. Dube, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred De-rocher.

She was big and raw-boned.

"The woman's name was Kate Van Auckin. I am today (1942) one of the only living persons who had known and talked with her.

Probably because she and her husband were the first to settle there, perhaps 20 years before we arrived, and she had been there alone so long, the place became known as Kate's Bay, and the name has survived. Old Kate and another settler named Dane, who had no boat, fished together. The remains of Kate's cabin on the south shore of the bay are still visible."

STILL STANDING—Taking up the story himself, Walter wrote: "A tall dolomite chimney rising from a granite and marble fireplace, cemented with home-fired lime, marks the site of Kate's home. It is one of the best bits of pioneer handicraft to be found in this part of Northern Michigan. Dane built it."

"Roberts, at the age of six or seven, played around among the cabins and got to know Kate Van Auckin quite well. She was a strict and motherly woman, and was bringing up a half-breed Indian boy, not her own, but one she had adopted."

OLD KATE LEAVES—Then further quoting the story as told by Jake Roberts to Walter Hornstein:

"When this boy reached the age of 15 years not long after we arrived, it was as though Kate had achieved something she had waited long for. She left her cabin home, her husband's body buried on the hillside, loaded her household goods into her sailboat and with her boy sailed away to Washington Island, or Death's Door. She was never again heard of here."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Civilian Production Administrator Jack Small, worried over race-track construction while veterans are denied homes, has now sent out orders to his branch offices to spur veterans' housing.

Some of these problems were discussed with Small at a recent closed-door meeting with representatives of the major veterans' groups, when Wesley Pearce of the Veterans of Foreign Wars broached the subject of the new race track in Monmouth County, N. J., which is being built with CPA okay.

"Now, wait a minute," interrupted Small. "That particular race track was started before we had established effective building controls."

"You can't blame me," he insisted. "I admit that it was a mistake. But it was started last November, before we instituted these stop-orders on non-essential construction. The materials were already on the ground. The contractors couldn't get by with anything like that now."

Small did not, however, explain why the race track hadn't been stopped by the CPA. Just before the meeting broke up, VFW's Jim Gillan asked Small about the 250-room addition to Washington's Shoreham Hotel which was ok'd by the CPA on the shallow grounds that the added 250 rooms were needed to promote "foreign relations."

Gillan pointed out that it might have been smarter for CPA to divert bathtubs, bricks, and other building essentials into building homes for veterans, inasmuch as visiting diplomats already enjoy a high priority on Washington hotel accommodations.

"We have plenty of bathtubs," replied Small, "and a new type of non-essential flooring material for the Shoreham which won't interfere with construction shortages."

Before veterans' spokesmen could pin him down on the number of essential housing items going into the Shoreham Annex, including bricks, the CPA boss announced that he had an appointment with the secretary of war and ended the conference.

—GETTING THE OPA—
OPA Administrator Paul Porter was being quizzed by Senator Homer Capehart, the Indiana "music-box master," regarding the renewal of price control.

"We don't want to destroy price control," said the senator from Indiana. "We just want to reform it so it will work. I don't see why you fellows don't co-operate."

"Senator," replied Porter, "you remind me of the fisherman who had just pulled in a whopper and then said to the fish, 'hold still. I'm not going to hurt you. I just want to get you a little bit.'"

—HORSE-TRADING AT PARIS—
Secretary Byrnes' cabled reports to President Truman regarding the Big Four conference have been reasonably optimistic. Both the Russians and Byrnes seem willing to do a little horse-trading. In fact, it was horse-trading that brought about the arrangement to evacuate Soviet troops from Bulgaria.

One victory Byrnes scored was on the evacuation of Soviet troops from Bulgaria. Here's how it happened behind closed doors in Paris.

The entire Italian question was being thrashed out, and the conversation between the two men went like this, Molotov asked Byrnes:

"What's this I hear about you Americans enlarging all your airfields in Italy? Could you be planning to pull something of a permanent nature there?"

Byrnes merely smiled and said:

"What's this I hear about the new Red Army air bases in Bulgaria? Were you Russians planning to settle down and stay there indefinitely?"

"Where did you hear that?" asked Molotov.

"Oh," replied Byrnes, "we have our sources."

"Well," replied Molotov, "I wouldn't believe every rumor you hear about what's happening in our area."

"In that case," Byrnes snapped back, "Don't believe everything you hear about what is happening in our zone."

This conversation gave birth to further discussion which finally led to the important agreement to evacuate all foreign troops from Italy and Bulgaria.

—PARIS NEWS BLACKOUT—

Here's what happened behind closed doors in Paris during the fight which led to the Big Four news blackout.

British Foreign Minister Bevin first proposed the blackout. Secretary Byrnes protested. He pointed out that he had to keep the American people informed of what he did in Paris, and he warned that everything would leak out sooner or later anyway.

Bevin, however, said flatly that if Britain was to get together with the other three powers on Trieste, the negotiations would have to be secret. So, reluctantly, Byrnes agreed to ending the news leaks on what is happening at the conference.

NOTE—At the same meeting, the Big Four named Andrei Vyshinsky, Gladwyn Jebb of Great Britain, and Ben Chen of the state department as members of the commission to investigate disposal of Italian colonies.

Students in a western college are using a textbook of case histories in a "family troubles" course. Characters, of course, are entirely frictional.

When two egotists meet, it's usually an I for an I.

Statistics show the average person will have three colds between now and December. There will be no mad scramble to get a full share.

The sign of summer we'd all most like to see is "HOUSE FOR RENT."

Rapid River Church Honors Service Men

Rapid River, Mich.—Calvary Lutheran church honored its returned service men on Sunday at services held at the Ogontz hall. A red, white and blue color scheme was used to decorate the hall. The long table reserved for the service men had, as a centerpiece, a large bouquet of white gladioli, blue iris and red poppies. Two large white cakes, decorated with tiny flags, completed the patriotic theme.

The program opened with a hymn by the audience; scripture reading and prayer—Rev. Emory Pokrant; piano—duet—Mary Lee Lind and Anita Person; vocal solo—Jolaine Johnson; accordion duet—Nancy and Daril Lindberg; vocal duet, "Consecration"—Mrs. Wellington Hinz and Stanley Erickson of Escanaba; trumpet solo—Eugene Johnson.

The Rev. Emory Pokrant was the speaker on the program which closed with the entire assembly "Star Spangled Banner."

A large crowd attended the program. Service men present were Robert E. Gustafson, Francis A. Ruenberg, Oswald Hanson, Stanley Erickson, Carl Nelson, Alfred Johnson, Axel Johnson, Harold Forslund, Harry Johnson and Everett Johnson. A number of service men from the church were unable to be present, since they are employed elsewhere. Others are still in the service.

Contributions To High School Band Fund Total $800

Chairman L. J. Jacobs, of the Chamber of Commerce band uniform and instrument committee, reported yesterday that about $800 of the $7,500 goal has been received to date.

Members of the committee decided in yesterday's meeting to request all solicitors to complete the canvass of their assigned areas within the next few days so that the money will be available for the purchase of new high school band uniforms and instruments as quickly as possible to have the band available in full dress for various summer conventions to be held in Escanaba.

Letters are going to all industries immediately asking for contributions to the fund. From the returns already received, the committee feels that the project is meeting with a great deal of public support as already many organizations, business places and individuals have sent in their donations.

Anyone not personally solicited can contribute by sending their donation to the Chamber of Commerce, band fund committee, Jacobs said.

small, where the lampreys spawn must be included in any effective program, and the eradication effort must be correlated with similar projects in other states to be effective.

To marshal federal forces to fight the lake menace, a resolution, introduced by Cong. Fred Bradley, is now up for congressional consideration calling for "investigation and eradication" of the lampreys.

The sea lamprey has no jaws. Instead, a circular sucker with horny projections serves as the mouth. It attaches itself by this sucker to a fish, rasping away the flesh with the toothlike projections and its powerful tongue, and sucks the fish's blood.

Great Lakes Fisheries Threatened By Lamprey Eel Coming From Ocean

Up and down the Great Lakes, from Manistique to Toronto, commercial fishermen are cursing the sea lamprey, an invader that came up the St. Lawrence and is literally chewing the life out of the fish and the fishing business.

It has been estimated by fishermen and ichthyologists that the slippery parasite that looks like an animated length of rubber hose is damaging 25 to 80 per cent of the trout caught in Lake Michigan. The lamprey also attacks whitefish, chubs and suckers. Besides those injured, countless fish are presumed to have been killed by the invader.

Last winter local fishermen reported finding a number of suckers either badly scarred by the voracious lamprey, or with the parasites attached to them. One of these measured 28 inches long. It was estimated that 50 per cent of the suckers taken through the ice off Gladstone last winter were marked by the lamprey. A few whitefish taken in local waters last winter also bore the scars left by the lamprey's round, rasp-like mouth.

Fish Are Damaged
Over at Manistique, where the fishermen are up in arms over this new threat to the business, literally thousands of spawning lampreys were trapped daily on the Manistique river at the Manistique Pulp and Paper Mill dam. The trap was devised by Walter Burns, former mayor of Manistique, and is a simple affair. The eels wiggle up a fish ladder and plop into a gasoline drum. They are disposed of by burning in the mill furnaces.

The fish which have encountered the lamprey and escaped from its leechlike grip bear scars which prevent or discourage their sale. Fishermen expressed concern over the menace to the nearly $5,000,000 annual Lake Michigan industry. Scientists have found no 100% remedy for the scourge, which is general throughout Lake Michigan as well as Lakes Erie, Ontario and Huron.

Dr. John Van Oosten, Ann Arbor, who is in charge of the Great Lakes fishery investigation for the department of interior's wild life service, reported that the lamprey is increasing rapidly in Lakes Michigan and Huron.

Trout Favorite Prey
Lake trout, constituting about half of Lake Michigan's annual fish catch, is the prey most favored, Van Oosten said. Whitefish, which are worth about $500,000 a year to Lake Michigan fishermen, and suckers, caught to the tune of $160,000 annually, are also often attacked.

The trout, having thin scales, are vulnerable to the lamprey, which scars many of these fish caught in Lake Michigan, he continued.

Dr. Van Oosten said that several reports of lampreys in Lake Superior have been received, but when these were investigated the lampreys proved to be the small native variety which never grows longer than 14 inches and is not a menace. The sea lamprey is from 14 to 30 inches long, he said.

Although no authenticated reports of the dangerous variety have been received from Lake Superior, Van Oosten continued, there is no way the parasite fish can be kept out of that lake.

Hangs On to Swimmers
While not dangerous to humans, the sea lamprey sometimes fastens itself to swimmers, Van Oosten reported. Participants in Toronto swimming marathons often cross the finish line with several of these unwelcome passengers in tow.

The lampreys, moving from the Atlantic ocean up the St. Lawrence river, were reported in Lake Ontario many years ago, Van Oosten said. When the Welland canal was built around Niagara Falls, the pests worked their way into Lake Erie, where they were first reported in 1921.

In 1930 they had reached Lake Huron, moving by way of the Detroit river into Lake St. Clair and thence by a connecting stream into the larger lake. The first sea lamprey found in Lake Michigan was caught near Milwaukee in 1936.

Van Oosten said the lamprey is the lowest living variety of fish. Several steps down in the evolutionary scale from the eel. Like the salmon, it moves into streams to spawn, preferring fast moving

FOUR MILLION SEEDS SOUGHT

State To Collect From 62 Different Kinds Of Trees, Shrubs

Lansing—Four million seeds of 62 different kinds of trees, shrubs and vines is the collection quota the conservation department's forestry division has set for itself this season, in addition to regular collection of pine seeds for its principal nursery product.

According to forester F. J. Hodge, who is directing the seed collecting around the state, the seed supply must be great enough to yield more than two million seedlings for landscaping state parks, for game food-and-cover plantings in state forests and game areas, and for plantings at stream improvement and fishing access sites.

Tree seed must be gathered promptly whenever it ripens, between now and December. Soft maple, red maple and elm seed was gathered in May; seeds of junelberry, mulberry, blackberry, dogwood, elder, wild grape and red bud will be collected in June and July; and the peak of the seed harvest will come in September and October. Sure discernment of species is required of the collectors. Seed size varies tremendously, from a couple of dozen to several thousand to the pound.

Tree and shrub production will be at Hardwood nursery near Wolverine. More than 200,000 of some species of proved value will be seeded. For others, still being planted experimentally, only a few thousand seeds will be needed.

The 30 broadleaved trees to be cultivated are: white ash, basswood, beech, butternut, white and red cedar, black cherry, Chinese hairy chestnut, American elm, wild crabapple, hawthorne, pig-nut and shagbark hickory, Juneberry, black and honey locust, hard, soft and red maple, mountain ash, red mulberry, white, red, black, bur and pin oak, osage orange, wild plum, sycamore and black walnut.

Seeds are being collected for these 32 shrubs and vines: arrowwood, bittersweet, blackhaw, blackberry, black cherry, coral-berry, highbush cranberry, gray flowering and red osier dogwood, black and red elder, ground junelberry, nannyberry, ninebark, chancre oak, red but, two kinds of wild rose, Russian olive, fragrant dwarf smooth and staghorn sumac, Virginia creeper and winter-berry.

Fossil "Leaf" Now Believed Fish Eggs

Washington—Fossil imprints of "leaves" made about 200,000,000 years ago have now been identified as marks of the eggs of a sharklike fish, Dr. Roland M. Brown, paleontologist of the U. S. Geological Survey, reported today after 10 years of study. The sandstone impressions were previously believed to be ancient palm leaves.

When Dr. Brown was unable to identify the strange imprints as any known leaves, he determined that they were made by leathery egg shells from ancient ancestors of modern sharks.

These fishes, who after 200,000,000 years caused a decade-long mystery, were chimeras, distant shark relatives, that lived in the time of the dinosaurs. About 25 species of chimeras exist today.

The leaf-like imprints came from relatively huge eggs, about one-fourth the adult size of the fish, Dr. Brown reports. The front part of the egg had an automatic valve that opened to permit the young fish to escape as soon as it was well enough developed.

When the fish departed, the egg flattened out. Through thousands of centuries the ooze in which some of these eggs became imprinted turned to rock leaving the fossil imprints for modern man to study.

These imprints have been discovered in rocks in such widely scattered places as Alaska, Germany, Wyoming and New Mexico.

Sterility Cured By Vitamin Use

San Francisco—Sterility in men has been cured in a certain number of cases by treatment with the vitamin B complex, Dr. Gerson R. Biskind, of Mount Zion Hospital and the University of California Medical School, reported at the meeting here today of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

Women periodically suffering tension, discomfort, abdominal puffiness and excessive bleeding were also helped by large doses of preparations containing the vitamin B complex.

The vitamin achieves these results, Dr. Biskind's studies here and at Johns Hopkins Medical School and Beth Israel Hospital, New York showed, because it is essential for certain functions of the liver.

This organ, he found in rat studies, normally destroys the sex hormones or changes them into an inactive state. This keeps a well regulated balance between male and female hormones in the body. When the body is not getting enough of the vitamin B complex, the liver is unable to destroy the female hormone, although the male hormone is removed at the customary rate.

Skin Allergy In Horse Reported

San Francisco—The first case on record of allergic skin disease in a horse, such as some humans get from dyes in clothing or from cosmetics, was reported by Dr. Lester Reddin, of Pearl River, N. Y., and Dr. Donald W. Stever, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., at the meeting here this morning of the American College of Allergists.

The horse had been suffering for three years from a skin irritation of the head, neck and saddle region. Analysis and skin tests showed it was due to contact with a saddle soap and leather conditioner used on the saddle.

The ingredients responsible were "wool yellow dye" in the saddle soap and sulfonated neats-foot oil in the leather conditioner. Each of these was harmless when used alone, but when combined and applied to the horse's skin tests were strongly positive.

Contact dermatitis has been produced experimentally in laboratory animals, but so far as the doctors know this is the first occurring otherwise.

FREE LESSONS FOR SWIMMERS

Classes Planned Daily
By Instructors At Municipal Beach

Swimming lessons will be offered free at the municipal bathing beach daily from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. It has been announced by George Grenholm, city recreation director.

The first meeting will be held Saturday morning at ten o'clock at which time any one interested in taking the Red Cross swimming courses will be given an opportunity to register.

Swimming instructors will be Art Peterson and Ray Ranguette. There will be classes for beginners and advanced swimmers in various age classifications.

Rafts will be installed at the beach shortly and a public address system with musical recordings will also be installed.

The beach, located along the north shore of Sand Point, has been exceptionally popular since it opened this week and several hundred youngsters and adults have utilized the facilities each day since the lifeguards went on duty. The beach is supervised from 10 a. m. to eight p. m. daily.

The city swimming area was moved to the north shore from Ludington park this year because of the development of the new beach at the park. This project will require at least two years to complete.

LIFE GUARDS—The city beach is supervised from 10 a. m. to eight p. m. daily. Lifeguards are Ray Ranguette, Wm. Hemes and Art Peterson.

Peterson, Ranguette and Peterson will conduct swimming classes at the beach daily at 10 o'clock, beginning Saturday.

In Hollywood

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

Hollywood, (NEA)—Hollywood's most famous English butler—tail, mustached, still elegant Samuel May—cannot get very excited over the postwar spending spree. He watched, and helped, Hollywood stars and New York socialites spend millions for 50 years.

May is 70 now, and his snappy walk (which once prompted Mrs. Charles Ray to point him out proudly to a friend on Hollywood boulevard, saying, "There goes our butler!") has slowed down to a firm but hesitant step.

Back in the roaring '20s, May was the crown prince of Hollywood's servants. Movie queens like Gloria Swanson and Mary Pickford schemed for his services.

He ruled the pantries of the big pink-stucco palaces in Beverly Hills, bought champagne by the carload, supervised breast-of-pheasant dinners for as many as 350 guests, and spent $24,000 on one order of imported brandy.

A Studio Cop Now
Today he wears a blue serge uniform, and a badge of the Samuel Goldwyn studio police force. He answers the set telephones, asks people for their passes, and runs errands for stars like Danny Kaye, Virginia Mayo, and Myrna Loy.

"I got too old for butling," he told us. "I couldn't take it anymore. So I retired. But I still have all my friends because I always minded my own business."

Sam is an Englishman, who first worked as butler for Hugo Haig, of the Scotch whiskey-making family, in England. He went to New York in 1894, and worked there as a butler for 26 years, serving socialites like Harry Payne Whitney, Peter Dunne and Robert Collier.

In 1920, Hollywood suddenly became fabulously rich. Sam moved west, with excellent letters of recommendation.

Charles Ray was the first to employ him.

"In fact, Ray was the first star to have an English butler," Sam said, with a chuckle. "I guess I was quite a sensation. The photographers even took my picture."

Gloria's Battle-Cry
When he was Gloria Swanson's butler, Gloria used to say to him before a big party: "Sam, give him 'ell."

She meant that Sam was to make sure the drinks were double.

For a special party at Pickfair, Sam once spent $500 for flowers with which to decorate the table. Doug Fairbanks came downstairs, took one look and said, "Sam, what is this—my funeral?"

Sam remembers, too, the atrocious manners of Hollywood's early-day stars who suddenly became rich.

"I worked for one fellow for five years," he said, "and I never saw him use the right fork."

Even after coming to Hollywood, Sam longed for the big New York receptions of the turn of the century.

"They were wonderful," he sighed. "We served cake and ice cream and punch, and everyone had a beautiful time. Then someone invented those horrible cocktail parties. Everybody gets drunk, and that is the end."

LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING
Crowley, La. (AP)—The housing shortage doesn't bother a sparrow whose home Henry Berger spotted there. The bird had taken up residence in a corner of traffic lights—where it is protected by the visitor and warned by the stop-and-go lights.

Plans to measure the intensity of cosmic rays at various altitudes and latitudes are announced by Dr. G. Grosvenor, president of National Geographic Society. The flights will be made by specially equipped B-29's.

In Phoenix, Ariz., motorists who leave their keys in the ignition switch may be charged with misdemeanor, subject to six months in jail and $300 fine. It is a step to curb car thefts by juvenile joy riders.

BIG TIME AT CITY BEACH—The bathing beach on the north shore of Sand Point is proving very popular with the local public. Hundreds have flocked to the beach each day since the area was opened under supervision. A volleyball net is one of the popular amusements at the beach. The players in the picture are Tom Fisher and Helen Gregory.

Atty. Robert Lemire Wins Commendation For World War Work

Robert E. Lemire, Escanaba attorney and counselor for the local Office of Veterans Affairs, Thursday received a commendation from Brig. Gen. B. M. Bryan, The Provost Marshal, for "exceptionally meritorious service in the office of the provost marshal general from June, 1944 to Jan., 1946."

Major Lemire, the citation said, contributed with distinction to the successful operation of the prisoner of war program demonstrating outstanding ability, initiative and competency in formulating plans and policies relative to the repatriation of prisoners of war.

Atty. Lemire went into the army as a private and received his honorable discharge with the rank of major early this year.

Poland To Stop Student Disorders
Warsaw (AP)—The government of Poland, in a move generally regarded as striking at the autonomy of universities, has decreed the creation of a nine-member council "to make the work of universities more efficient, to improve their democratic character and to improve the material situation of students."

The council president and vice-president will be appointed by the national council of the homeland (parliament). Premier Edward Osobka-Morawski will appoint seven members from among university professors and social organizations.

The move followed student strikes in various cities and what were termed "anti-government" demonstrations.

Annual Vacation Battle Commences

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

The annual living-room battle of the great American family, necessarily abandoned during the war as a result of governmental travel restrictions, has once more returned to its prewar position as a nationwide main event.

The principals are familiar. They're the nicest people in the world, good old Mama and Papa, ordinarily compatible and reasonable in every way, but simply unable to agree on this one all-important issue.

The battle's length is the same as of old. The folks "mix it up" verbally every morning and evening for at least six weeks before Papa is finally tired, for that glorious fortnight, from the shackles of commercial toil whose crushing weight he seems only to feel when the sun beats down on his business establishment and the siren call of the "great outdoors" is heard.

The audience, too, is the same. Johnny and Jane, wide-eyed and unhappy, listen as long as they can to the daily battle, then run outside to play—and to wonder what has happened to the "perfect parents" about whom they've always boasted.

Yes, the yearly "vacation brawl" is back with us.

Papa Wants To "Rough It"
Papa, beating his once-manly chest, insists upon answering the "call of the wild" with a fishing trip into the backwoods, or at least by "roughing it" in the mountains. He scorns the "decadent fineries" of a metropolitan hotel or of a seaside resort. And, above all, he simply will NOT drive anywhere—"Fine vacation, this—sweating out the road!"

Mama is equally determined. She will NOT renounce civilization to live in the "filth and squalor" of a sylvan hut, nor will she watch Papa pit his puny physique against mountain heights in a contest to which there can be but one conclusion. She's going to an exhilarating beach or to a luxurious big-city hotel—and, what's more, Papa is going to drive her there.

That's the issue, kids. And, though the fight is furious and often distressing, you needn't worry about the decision.

Get out your bathing suits and your Sunday togs, Johnny and Jane. Papa may not know it yet, but he's going to drive you to the seaside or to the big city. He always does.

Wheels, Tires, Car
Radio Stolen From Bark River Garage

Two automobile tires and wheels and a car radio were stolen sometime Wednesday night from the Al Johnson garage at Bark River. It was reported to the sheriff's department yesterday.

The tires were 6-60x16, white walls and the wheels red colored. The radio was either a Philco or a Zenith.

The council president and vice-president will be appointed by the national council of the homeland (parliament). Premier Edward Osobka-Morawski will appoint seven members from among university professors and social organizations.

The move followed student strikes in various cities and what were termed "anti-government" demonstrations.

Real Property Values Show Wide Variation In Several Townships

Although real property valuations established in the county by appraisers of the J. M. Clemenishaw company, Cleveland appraisal firm, were reported to have been "used as a guide" in the equalization of valuations for county tax purposes, the valuation percentage in comparison to the Clemenishaw figures varies from a low of 65 per cent in one township to 100 per cent in another.

Supervisor Allen T. Mercier of Nahma township, chairman of the county board's equalization committee, presented the committee's report with the statement that valuations for the various units were based on 90 per cent of the totals "with a few exceptions which did not amount to much."

On a percentage basis in comparison with the Clemenishaw figures, the equalized real property valuations as established by the board on recommendation of the committee ranged from 65 to 100 per cent. The low of 65 per cent was in Nahma township, the high of 100 per cent in Wells township.

In Nahma township the Clemenishaw company reported a real property valuation of $778,944. This was cut by the board of review to $456,764 and increased by the equalization committee to $505,870 or 65 per cent of the Clemenishaw figures.

In Wells township the Clemenishaw company reported a real property valuation of $2,400,835. This was increased slightly by the township board of review to $2,400,875, and left at that figure by the equalization committee and the county board. This made the equalized figure slightly above 100 per cent of the Clemenishaw figures.

Aside from Nahma township, no other unit in the county was in the 60 per cent or 70 per cent bracket, and Cornell township was next lowest with 82 per cent of the Clemenishaw figures. Bark River had 82.8 and several others were in the 80's, including Escanaba and Gladstone. Five townships had increases of 90 per cent or better over the Clemenishaw figures.

Several township supervisors have attacked the Clemenishaw figures, particularly in relation to its appraisal of land. At the recent board meeting it was voted to have the Clemenishaw appraisers return this year and resurvey the townships where certain valuations are disputed.

The Clemenishaw valuation figures, assessed valuations as set by boards of review, equalized values established by the county board, and the percentage in comparison with the Clemenishaw figures are as follows:

Rat Control Work Is Completed Here Thursday Afternoon

Municipal public works department employees, aided by local Boy Scouts, Thursday completed the work of setting out more than 300 pounds of red squill rat poison at various points in the city where rat trouble has been reported.

More than 50 special calls were made at the request of Escanaba residents.

Joe Holmes, superintendent of the public works department, said yesterday that the city still has about 20 pounds of the rodent poison and local citizens who have used it may pick it up at the city garage not later than this afternoon.

The annual rat campaign began Wednesday morning and the work was completed yesterday.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matters in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent urinate passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is some thing wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Americans Need Marital Schooling

B. YRUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Two out of every five marriages today are ending in divorce—yet the problem is still at the head-shaking stage. There isn't much of anything being done about it.

The experts who study such trends predict that the divorce rate will continue to rise. And those who deal with young law-breakers find that juvenile delinquency, in an alarming percentage of cases, can be traced to broken homes.

Still we do little but shake our heads and talk about the breakdown of the American home.

A Chicago judge who hears an average of 50 divorce cases a day has advocated that we have state-operated schools, compulsorily attended by every couple seeking a marriage license, which would teach prospective husbands and wives a few facts about economic adjustment, sexual adjustment, in-law relationships, and child psychology.

He would require—at the completion of the course—a marriage intelligence test, which a couple would have to pass before receiving a license.

That would be a drastic change in a country that believes in love at first sight, thinks anybody of a certain age has a right to marry, and cherishes the belief that if a couple are "in love" their marriage will work out somehow.

Drastic Action Needed
But isn't it about time we took some drastic step to safeguard the American home?

We compel kids to go to school a certain number of years, whether they want to or not. Why not go a step further and make them take some training for marriage before we turn them loose to start homes?

We'll come to some such system eventually. We'll have to, or have a country where kids are raised in institutions and marriage for life is a forgotten ideal.

Why wait until the two-out-of-five divorce statistics become one-in-two?

Try a For Rent Ad today.

Hunting And Fishing
By Sid Gordon

A LARGE DEER CROP
The general birth average is about the same for male and female fawns, about one male to one female. We kill the bucks and save the females. This does not mean that no does, no females, are killed each year for the evidence is right there before us.

There is always the hunter who shoots at anything. The fact that some do shoot at anything that moves in the woods is beyond argument. The dead bodies of our hunters and those who are wounded prove this beyond any doubt.

Then there is the hunter who sees the deer plainly and, in the half light, blizzard or foggy weather, isn't sure whether the deer has horns. He shoots and then goes over to see what the sex of the deer may be. If it is a doe, he keeps traveling.

While I have no actual statistics and neither has anyone else, I believe that 1,000 hunters out of every 10,000 have this habit. I base it upon the instances my men and myself have dragged out dead deer during the hunting season, deer killed illegally.

For instance, one season at one of our camps west of Phillips we found over 100 dead does, fawns, yearlings and mature. Some of the fawns were buck fawns also. I am sure that there were not over 400 hunters in the area we worked so my estimate seems low when I say that one hunter out of each 10 makes a "mistake."

There will be many who will take issue with my figures but I shall hold to them until they, too, have worked several areas with 100 men or more where hunters have taken their stands. Has not almost every hunter in a party of 10 heard one of them say that he saw a dead doe in the woods? Or has not seen someone shooting at a running fawn or doe?

This year there will be a great increase in our deer crop. The winter has been favorable to the fawn carrying does. Each fertile doe will give birth to one or two fawns. If the next two winters are mild we can look forward to a very large crop of deer in 1949.

We should have a very good crop this year for, regardless of all the talk of starving deer, the herd is very large. Next winter may be a very bad year. Now is the time to make that resolution "never shoot until you see horns."

Each of us knows some "trigger happy" friend. Now is the time to tell him frankly that we do not want him in our camp next season. Let him make arrangements to hunt with others of his kind. I hate to say this BUT anytime there is a man killed or wounded, the blame should lie right there upon every man in his crew. We are very much to blame for not making our camp rule—"No Horns No Shots."

IM DUMB ABOUT CARP
The boys were arguing about carp the other day when I stepped into the drugstore. The folks in the east like to eat them—but how the fishermen hate them in their lakes! The boys had several complaints against the carp. Some had watched them feed in clear water.

They saw them suck up the mud silt for small snails and clams, under water insects and vegetation, rooting like hogs in a trough. Then they saw the bottom and the fish disappear, for the carp shot the mud out of their mouths and rolled the water in an instant.

Soon the water looked like a muddy creek in a freshet and they turned away disgusted. Several thousand carp can roll the waters of an entire lake and keep it roiled for weeks, yes months. I read some figures about them the other day.

The conservation department said they had removed 10 million pounds of carp from certain waters. A 20-pound female will spawn about two million eggs. If half of those fish were females, the netters stopped five hundred billion fry from hatching. If you want it in figures it looks like this—500,000,000,000 fry!

While the fry furnishes a great amount of food for walleye and northern pike, for bass and muskies, perch and pan fish, who can say what the carp destroy? No bass can spawn in rolled water nor can any other nesting fish such as blue gills, crappies and rock bass.

Nor can the smothered eggs of pike, northern and muskies ever become live fry, fingerlings or legal fish. They are dead before they have a chance to "eye" up. Nor can ducks drop in to feed on carp-infested waters, for plants will not grow where the sun can not penetrate in muddy waters.

When the boys asked me whether the netters did not do more damage to the duck feed, the water plants, I had to tell them that I was dumb about carp. It may be that they do destroy some plant beds with their netting but when I think of those 500,000,000,000 eggs which they have destroyed, I cannot help but feel that we need rough fish removal.

No one has done it yet, but some day some conservation department will appoint a committee of plant specialists and a committee of local fishermen and duck hunters. They will seine three bays right there. Then for three seasons they will observe the bays and compare them with three bays which the netters have not touched.

In that way we shall learn whether the carp destroy more duck food than the seiners. But the seiners surely will show the fishermen that they have saved millions of spawning game fish eggs. There are more fishermen than duck hunters. It may be that they will get together and hold some bays for spawning and others for food for the ducks, but I doubt it!

Chatham

Parkila-Anderson Wedding
Chatham, Mich.—Miss Bernice Parkila, daughter of Mrs. Sophie Parkila, Chatham, became the bride of John R. Anderson, 134 West Prospect street, Marquette, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 23, at a double ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Arthur C. DeVries of Marquette, at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Johnson, 528 Center street, Marquette.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Kulju and Miss Gloria Cryderman. Their escorts were Charles Daidrich and Herbert W. Anderson, cousin of the groom.

The bride wore a floor length white nylon gown made with a fitted bodice, long sleeves, and a sweetheart neckline, and a gored skirt. Her fingertip veil was edged with lace and her only jewelry was a cat's eye necklace from Guam, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Kulju wore a dress of pink net over silk, and Miss Cryderman a blue silk dress. Both gowns were similarly made with short puffed sleeves, fitted bodice, and full skirts. They wore choker necklaces to match their dresses, gifts of the bride, and shoulder corsages of peach gladioli.

Mrs. Parkila wore a royal blue dress with a corsage of red roses.

The rooms in which the ceremony took place were decorated with yellow roses, blue and yellow lilies, and white peonies. Mrs. Victor Swanson played the traditional bridal music.

At noon a pre-nuptial dinner was served to the immediate families by the bride's aunt. Following the ceremony a reception was held from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Axel Johnson residence for about 50 guests. The table was centered with a low pottery bowl of yellow tea roses, and a two-tiered wedding cake, which was cut by the bride. Mrs. Carl Eggers presided at the table. Accordion music during the reception was furnished by William Rajala.

The bride is a graduate of the Eben high school and at present is a senior in St. Luke's training school of nursing and will complete her course there. The groom recently received his discharge as technical sergeant after 3½ years with the 20th Air Force in the Pacific theatre. He is employed at the Lake Shore Engineering company.

The couple left for a week's honeymoon and on their return will live at 134 West Prospect street.

Out-of-town relatives were Mrs. Sophie Parkila and daughter Sarah, the bride's grandfather Gottfried Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and daughter Dorothy, and Mr. and Mrs. William Rajala and son John, all of Chatham.

Pirates Roving Bay Of Bengal

(P) Newsfeatures
Singapore—Marauding pirate bands continue to raid tonkangs (junks) and fishing craft along Malaya's northern coast despite unrelenting efforts of Malay police and the British military to end these reminders of the era when Malayan waters were a pirates' paradise.

Armed with Sten guns, Tommy guns and, police believe, even machine guns, the pirates strike in the Bay of Bengal off Penang, Kedah and Perlis.

They swoop down upon small coastal vessels, robbing them of their entire cargo. They raid fishermen, seizing fish, nets and boats and leaving their victims beside their fishing pens at the mercy of the elements.

Pirate headquarters is known to be the Siamese "Devil's Island" of Pulau Terutau, north of the Langkawi Islands, to which several hundred desperados were exiled in years past.

Several months ago a special British task force struck there in co-operation with Siamese authorities. The pirate gangs were smashed and their leader, an important Siamese political prisoner, was arrested. Now remnants of the old gang apparently have reorganized.

Ample Accommodations
For Vacationers Here
Say Local Resorters

Emphatic exception to reports being circulated in many places in Lower Michigan to the effect that resorts in the Upper Peninsula are so filled up that tourists will find it difficult to find a place to stay, is voiced by many resorters in this area.

The Manistique region is enjoying a good tourist business—better than usual—these resorters state, but there are ample accommodations available for every type of tourist trade and hundreds more will be welcome.

A typical sample of the unfavorable publicity complained of appeared in the Battle Creek Enquirer and News in its issue of June 13. The article, under the byline of Walt Kittinger, states, in part:

"Warning! I have contact with many persons who are in a position to know, so again I warn you: Do not expect to just up and amble into the north country and expect to find a place to stay, even over night. . . . Nearly everything is booked for the entire summer everywhere. Persons who have tourist cabins have booked them for a week at a time regardless of their proximity to the fishing territory. . . . The situation will remain the same until after Labor Day and don't be misled into thinking that the secluded spot only you and a few friends know about will have vacancies. There will be none when you arrive. . . . Food will be short in the far north country, too. . . . Every resort owner is swamped with inquiries and turning people down every day. The fact still remains: Unless you have reservations in advance, you will not find a place to hang your hat while doing a little fishing."

J. Mauritz Carlson, secretary of the Schoolcraft-Manistique Chamber of Commerce, speaking for it and the resort owners who are members of that organization, expressed surprise at Kittinger's article. "He must have been hard up for something to write about. Some of his statements are utterly ridiculous," said Carlson. "While it is true that resort owners are enjoying a better than average run of business for this time of the year, it should be remembered that the season doesn't really reach its peak until July and August and accommodations will be more than ample for weeks to come."

Few resort owners, says Mr. Carlson, have had to turn away any guests this season. In the few instances where this has happened, the resorters have seen to it that the stranger was taken care of by some resort in the vicinity.

While it is true that some of the area's most widely publicized resorts are heavily booked and it would be advisable for the prospective guest to arrange ahead of time for accommodations, the situation has not as yet come to such a pass that the vacationer will "find no place to hang his hat while doing a little fishing," Mr. Carlson adds.

At the Manistique Tourist Information Bureau in Triangle Park across the street from the post office, Miss Evelyn Berwin, in charge, stated that at least for the present, and most likely throughout the entire summer, except perhaps during such occasions as the Fourth of July, the four days of the American Legion convention (July 18, 19, 20 and 21) and Labor Day, there should be ample accommodations for vacationers in the area.

It may be added that Manistique's hotel and restaurant facilities are sufficient to cope with the local situation under current circumstances. Meat and other foods are to be sure, scarce, but no more so than in any other part of the country. Besides, Lake Michigan whitefish or trout, served fresh at local eating places, is far more delectable and satisfying than the liver sausage with which southern Michigan is surfeited.

McCormick Granted Custody Of Young Rockefeller Kin
Middletown, Conn.—(P)—Two great-grandchildren by adoption of John D. Rockefeller passed under the guardianship of Fowler McCormick, wealthy Chicago industrialist, thus ending one phase of a long and bitter legal fight.

Acting probate court Judge William Mangum of New Britain gave the custody of Edith Rockefeller Hubbard, 13, and Elisha Dyer Hubbard, 9, to McCormick until she joined the WACS more than three years ago, they had been the adopted children of his sister, Mrs. Muriel Hubbard McCormick, widow of Elisha Dyer Hubbard, wealthy Middletown manufacturer.

Mrs. Hubbard was in court in uniform today but exchanged no words with her brother, Fowler. Both are grandchildren of John D. Rockefeller.

Sisters Become Brides In Double
Wedding At Cooks

Two sisters, the Misses Bernita June Wehner and Pauline Marjory Wehner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wehner of Cooks, became brides at a double wedding ceremony on June 18 at the Seventh Day Adventist church at Cooks.

At the evening candle-light service, performed by the Rev. J. B. Blosser, Miss Bernita Wehner was united in marriage to Clyde Matthei Hainey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hainey of Livonia, Ind.; and Miss Pauline Wehner became the bride of Joseph Russell Fisk.

Fresh garden flowers banked the altar for the service, at which Mrs. George Schram of Escanaba played the traditional wedding march, and accompanied Mrs. Mennehall as she sang "I Love You Truly."

Wear White Gowns

For her wedding, Bernita chose a white satin and net gown styled with a short train. She wore a full length veil of illusion, edged with lace, and carried a bouquet of white lilies and bridal wreath.

Pauline's bridal gown was of white jersey. She wore a fingertip veil edged with lace, and carried a bouquet similar to her sister's.

Mrs. Virginia Selby of Manistique was matron of honor for her sister, Bernita. She wore a gown of pink satin, and carried a bouquet of blue lilies. Bernita's bridesmaid was Mrs. Bertha Lausten of Cooks, who wore a gown of blue satin and carried deep rose-colored peonies. The flower girl, Sandra June Selby, niece of the brides, wore a long dress of pale green sheer.

Mr. Hainey asked his brother, Wilbur to serve as best man, and ushers were Harry Selby of Manistique, and Rodger Hainey of Livonia, Ind.

Pauline chose for her matron of honor, Mrs. Donald Blosser of Cooks, who wore a gown of blue net and satin, and carried a bouquet of yellow lilies. Pauline's bridesmaid was Mrs. Laura Wehner, who was bridesmaid. Her gown was of pink satin, and she carried deep rose peonies. Sharlot Carol Blosser, wearing a floor-length dress of peach satin, was Pauline's flower girl. Edward Paul Selby, nephew of the two brides, was the Bible bearer at the double ceremony.

Mr. Fisk asked Marcel Cret to serve as his best man, and ushers were Donald Blosser of Cooks and Roy Burns of Holly, Mich.

Mrs. Wehner attended the wedding of her daughters wearing a dress of aqua jersey with white accessories. Mr. Fisk's mother chose a blue suit with black accessories.

To Attend College
Following the ceremony, 75 guests attended a reception at the Wehner home, where the brides cut the large tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Hainey left yesterday for Berrien Springs, Mich., where they are both attending Emmanuel Missionary college.

Both brides will reside for the present in Manistique, where they are both employed, and will return in September to Emmanuel Missionary college, which they have both been attending.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Fisk, Manistee; Glenn Hainey, Wilbur Hainey, Rodger Hainey, and Russell Hainey and Miss Carolyn Jean Hainey of Livonia, Ind.

MAY WELFARE COST $47,021

Number Of Old Age And Direct Relief Cases Show Increase

Welfare expenditures in Delta county for the month of May, 1946, totaled $47,021.16, and increase of $6,107.28 over the corresponding month last year, according to figures released by A. M. Gilbert, director of the Delta county social welfare board.

The report shows that the number of old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and direct relief cases have increased during the past year. Old age assistance cases increased from 813 to 833, dependent children from 159 to 177, and direct relief cases from 252 to 298.

Old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind, financed equally by state and federal funds, totaled $37,095.60 for the past month. Direct relief, which is financed by state and county funds, increased from $5,009.53 a year ago to $6,590.57 in May of this year. County welfare, infirmity and administrative costs, wholly financed by county funds, showed a slight decrease. Administrative costs for the past month were $1,170.38 compared with $1,283.41 a year ago.

There were 24 persons maintained at the county infirmary, and the cost to the county was $953.69. County welfare and hospital cost was $1,228.94 for the past month.

Fit Cabinets To Housewife's Reach, Plea Of Scientist

Cleveland—To build the kitchen cabinets to serve the housewife's reach and the kitchen to fit the family are aims of the new program of functional design of the kitchen, reported by Mrs. Mary Koll Heiner of Cornell University, to the American Home Economics Association here today.

The continuous counters and overhead cabinets with many shelves now in vogue are not all that is needed to streamline working conditions for the housewife, says Mrs. Heiner. The body mechanics of the woman putting away the dishes and taking out the roast must be considered first.

The new concept of functional kitchen design uses the same methods which decrease fatigue and increase output in industry—changing the design of the man's work place to fit his normal and maximum reach.

The "body economy" value of each new kitchen storage design must be measured by reliable standards, such as are being developed now, reported Mrs. Heiner.

"The problems of an aging population indicate the need for less stooping and reaching and for better visibility," the speaker continued. "These aspects of more functional design are equally important in youth. Age merely accentuates the problems."

Over-Ceiling Price Charges Cost Local Dealers $25 Each

Settlements of $25 for the sale of firewood at over-ceiling prices have been made by William Rappin and Ernest J. Finger, 1407 First avenue south, and by Al Dagenais, 1501 Washington avenue, for overcharges to consumers on food items, the Michigan District Office of Price Administration has announced.

The contributions were made to the U. S. Treasury.

Dr. Royal Buege's Body Is Recovered

The body of Dr. Royal R. Buege, 43-year-old Marinette dentist was recovered at 9:05 a. m. Wednesday from the whirlpool below Whitefish Lake dam on the Michipicoten river, 155 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

The body was to be flown out of the Algoma bush country today by an Ontario forestry patrol seaplane to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., to be prepared for burial and will be brought to Marinette with the body of his father, Richard H. Buege, 67, whose body was recovered two days ago. The body of his son, Richard John Buege, 21 was recovered last week.

A triple funeral is tentatively set for Saturday. The three generations of the Buege family—all only sons—were drowned June 5 on the Michipicoten river on a fishing trip with Dr. G. A. Ritchie of Sault, Mich., a dentist friend of Dr. Buege. Dr. Ritchie's body was recovered last week.
